Antaira APX-3100 Industrial IP67 AP/Client/Bridge to be Phased Out

Due to a discontinuation by the manufacturer of the 802.11b/g/n wireless module found in the APX-3100 unit, Antaira will be immediately discontinuing the production of this product. Antaira will continue to provide product warranty and support for any outstanding product. Also, we will be launching an alternative replacement product called the APX-3200.

The APX-3200 industrial wireless product provides a more advanced wireless module design with a higher radio output power. This unit will have the same certifications and environmental/ temperature rating of the previous version with a standard operating temperature (-20 to 70C).
